“ I will miss Roger! He was a great friend. He always was around when I crossed the tracks at noon to go back to school. He called me "doggie"! We did a LOT OF LAUGHING! Not only was he a school friend we continued on after high school with him and other high school friends. And finally we have been communicating by email the last several years. I loved his humor and caring quality. Send my sympathy to all the family and friends that will miss him dearly. Marcia Codner Ressler

“ Uncle Roger’s selflessness woven with unconditional love and steadfast emotional support is an illuminous thread that not only strengthened his life’s tapestry; but that of every soul he encountered. A thread that is most evident in all of his family’s tapestries. He remains in every reel of my most cherished memories and it is a sincere comfort to know he is only as far away as my nearest memory of him. Through this unremitting and over whelming loss, I choose to celebrate who he was, in all the many colorful facets of his gloriously human self. His full-faced legendary grin would instantaneously center you in happiness and oblivate the harshness of this world’s reality. A privilege I always looked forward to and basked in every chance I got. No sacrifice was too great for him to overcome, he was present and giving, in all his families celebrations or darkest hour.

I believe with my whole heart that Uncle Roger wasn’t the last to go home to his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, because he was the youngest. God covered him in a hedge of protection, because Roger, so willing shared the extraordinary gifts of comfort and love that God had instilled in him; to sacrificially be there for each one of his parents and siblings. Luminaries like Uncle Roger, are fewer these days and though his light will forever shine through the threads he so lovingly weaved; his physical presence will leave a void that no one can fill.

My peace comes from the image of Grandma’s handkerchief lifted up to wipe her tears of joy, Grandpa’s hand slaps his knee as his grin clinches his pipe; and the seven gather in a loving embrace in their heavenly home. Godspeed dear one, love you.
