Patricia was born March 24, 1961 in Lincoln, Nebraska at Bryan Memorial Hospital to John and Ramona (Nielsen) Knake.

Patricia attended Burke High School in Omaha, Nebraska and graduated with the class of 1979. The same year she married Randy Bojanski and the couple made their home in Omaha. Patricia worked as a receptionist for several firms and enjoyed being a fitness instructor.

In 1985, she moved to Linwood, Nebraska where she tried market gardening. In 1988, she was recognized for all her hard work in the Schuyler Sun Newspaper.

After her marriage ended, Patricia restored her name back to Knake and she moved to Kearney in 1991. She worked at Baldwin Filters and then in 1993 she started working at Eaton's until 1999. Major Depression caused her to work part-time at Wendy's and Walmart until receiving her disability in 2004. Patricia made her home at Kearney Manor for over ten years. In 2022, after being cancer free for five years, the cancer came back. Her trust, faith, and love of God kept her strong to endure the trials that she had on earth.

Left to cherish her memory are her brother, David Knake of Kearney; step-mother, Helen Knake of Kearney; step-sister, Jackie Maglione of Hastings; special friend, Sharon Cooper of Kearney; good friend and neighbor, Jessica Wilcox of Kearney; as well as several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Patricia was preceded in death by her father, John Knake; mother, Ramona Knake; and grandparents.
