

Trudy Hammond

May 20, 1948 - June 10, 2010

VALLEY - Trudy (Hammond) Day, 62, of Elkhorn died Thursday, June 10, 2010, at Valhaven Nursing Home in Valley. Services will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday at St. James Catholic Church in Kearney with the Rev. Mike McDonald officiating. Burial will be later at Broken Bow Cemetery. Visitation will be from 5-7:30 p.m. Thursday at O'Brien-Straatmann Funeral Home in Kearney and one hour before services Friday at the church. A prayer vigil will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home. She was born May 20, 1948, in Broken Bow to Robert "Bob" and LaRue (Hauck) Hammond. In 1967, she married Jim Day. Survivors include her parents of Kearney; daughter, Pam Weiss and her husband, Bob, of Elkhorn; son, Greg Day and his wife, Patricia, of Malvern, Iowa; seven grandchildren; one great-grandchild; brothers, James and his wife, Judy, of Litchfield and Edward and his wife, Debbie, of Riverdale; and numerous nieces, nephews, cousins and friends. She grew up in the Litchfield area and graduated from Litchfield High School in 1966. Military duties took her and Jim to Washington, D.C. Later, she returned to Nebraska and lived in the Omaha area. She was preceded in death by her brother, Steven, and nephew, Brian Hammond. Memorials are suggested to Shriner's Hospital for Children in Minneapolis.

“ Trudy was my best friend when she lived in Washington, DC and Jim left with the kids. We supported each other in our losses and eventually she moved back to Nebraska where Jim had returned with Pam and Greg because she wanted to be in their lives. She loved her kids more than most mothers could and would go to the end of the earth for them if necessary. I loved her incredible sense of humor, and adventure! She never gave herself enough credit for being an honest, decent woman who did her best. We connected on and off over the years, but I am truly sorry I wasn't able to see her before passing. My condolences to the family; I hope everyone is doing well. JoAnne Brown
